FOREWORD

This year our annual is a symbol of the enthusiastic spirit shown by the entire student body in making this yearbook possible. If this book serves to inspire us to greater achievements and to arouse the spirit of those students who will succeed us; if in later years it enables us to recall memories which will renew love and devotion to our Alma Mater, our efforts in trying to preserve the "atmosphere" of our campus life by compiling the activities of this year will be rewarded.

May it justify the hope of those who have toiled in its making—

To Elnora Mertins and Elizabeth Lee, who have merited the sincere admiration of the faculty and students alike; whose loyalty, integrity, and friendliness fully exemplify the spirit of these institutions; who have been untiring in cooperation, and efficient in service, we dedicate this our annual for 1940.

DEDICATION

THE Editors SAY...

We've worked together,
We've worked apart,
This annual to release.
We've fussed and fumed,
We smiled and said,
"The labor shall not cease."

We've done our job,
Now you do yours—
Just praise this to the summit.
And if you say this book's no good—
Well, if you don't like it—
Lump it!

The main entrance of our 15-year-old building is one of popularity as well as of beauty.

THE IDEALIST

The highest privilege of the teacher is to open to some new vista of opportunity and to lead them to some new height of outlook and greater height of vision. The heart of the challenge I would put to you is that you should recall idealism to its old and lofty purpose in your living and feel in the fibre of your being its commanding solicitation.

In an age when so much emphasis is put upon the actual and utilitarian values of life, idealism has the appearance of remoteness and intangibility and impracticality. Still you must know that it is precisely this inherent inaccessibility that gives to idealism its appeal to the spirit of youth. It is like the inaccessibility of a rugged mountain peak, which provokes the desire to climb. As one laboriously ascends, at last with tired muscles and aching limbs, and with the knowledge that we may never quite reach its summit, we are still exultant in spirit for we see the great world at our feet. What seemed a hopeless tangle as seen from below gets perspective and meaning when seen from above. Thus the larger view and broader horizon become the reward of the idealist.

And so, fellow-students, I call upon you to make the pursuit of Life, remembering that whether you turn it toward Beauty, or Truth, or Goodness, the same succession of steps is taken and the same wholeness is disclosed. For the student, whatever his special interest—whether it be Science, or Art, or Literature, or Morals—he is in every case solicited to an unscalable height.

You should remember that there are moral conditions of scholarly achievement. A scholar must be not only creative, but sincere. An undefiled character gives you not only a finer morality, but a finer intellect. Your eyes are clear because your heart is pure. Let it come to be with you as it is written in the Book of Books—"The Pure in heart shall see God."

ERIC W. HARDY, President.

THE DEAN

I have been asked to write a brief message to you; but, because there are so many good things in life I want each of you to have, I find it difficult to formulate a message that will convey all my desires for you. In short, I shall simply wish for each of you happiness and success in your lives as you leave school.

To achieve happiness and success, you must remember that these attributes are not to be measured alone by the mere acquisition of material wealth and possessions. The man who places such homely, sterling virtues as character, honesty, perseverance, industry and thrift, and last, but not least, reverence to God, foremost in his life will be richly rewarded. The world now has a great and crying need for men and women of character, devoted to the service of their country and of their fellow men. The hope and salvation of our country lie in the hands of our youth; it is your privilege to lead onward and upward.

It is my hope that you may happily combine the idealistic and the materialistic aspects of life, and achieve that measure of success and happiness that is your due.

A. P. MARKERT, Dean.

A Faculty Appreciation

In the dedication of this Yearbook, the student body has given its testimonial of love and respect for the two grand ladies who have served them so beautifully and efficiently in our offices.

No people appreciate them more deeply or hold them in greater affection than the members of the faculties of the Academy of Richmond County and the Junior College of Augusta. As the spokesman of the faculties, I respectfully dedicate the following simple lines to Miss Elenora Mertins and Miss Elizabeth Lee.

Just you, with each day's new dawning,
Just you, with each morning's good cheer,
Just you, who lighten our burdens,
Just you, so happy and near.

Just you, when our hearts grow heavy,
Just you, when we're lonely or sad,
Just you, when all others have failed us,
Just you, when the world's gone mad.

Just you, how patient and kindly,
Just you, the fairest and best,
Just you, true friends, and so loyal,
Just you, with your life and your zest.

Just you, how tenderly we cherish,
So lovely, so brave, and so true—
We pour out our daily libations,
And thank God for the two—just you.

Faculty Resolutions

NOTE:—The following were found by our snoopervisor on a crumbled piece of paper in the faculty room just after the first faculty meeting of the New Year.

I, Ernest Mason Allen, do resolve to wear dark glasses while teaching my Junior College French classes in order to prevent any unnecessary diversion on the part of the feminine members present.

I, Margaret Bailie, do resolve not to allow so much necessary whispering in the library and to resort to quieter tactics in so doing.

I, John Marshall Ellis, do resolve never again to quake with fear and timidity because of the girls in my classes. From this time forth I shall look them square in the eyes instead of bashfully gazing at their feet. Yessir. I'll mow 'em down with stares!

I, Eric West Hardy, do resolve not to invite the Board of Education to inspect the institution on Washington's Birthday (and incidentally, give them a good dinner in the lunch room) with the sole intention of extracting an appropriation from them.

I, Joseph R. Moseley, do hereby resolve, hereafter and forevermore, never to leave the subject of mathematics while conducting my classes. From this time forth, I will restrain, cease, and absolutely quit remarking about and discussing the European situation, my farming problems, domestic misadventures, and other peculiar subjects.

I, Henry Osgood Read, do resolve to remain in my home-room after nine o'clock, and to leave the management of inane conduct in the corridors to other members of the faculty, in order that one of these might acquire my reputation.

I, George Ridgway, do resolve not to waste any more time teaching school, but rather to spend that time resting, sleeping, and eating.

I, Chester Arthur Scruggs, do resolve that hereafter I shall cease philosophizing, restrain my imagination from having such free range, dispense with advancing my impractical theories, and in short, try not to mesmerize my students. Rather I shall spend more time on the Essentials of Chemistry.

I, Chester M. Sutton, do resolve to require more work of my English classes. I am tired of students and faculty members' accusing me of offering "crip courses."

I, LeConte Talley, do resolve to cease doling out indefinite and impractical theories to poor, defenseless Physics students.

A Student's Impression of the Faculty

A's the teacher who gave us this book
B's the librarian with the silencing look
C's the leader of our promising band
D teaches the language of a far away land
E's too handsome to really be true
F tells the camera club just what to do
G and his glee club are really a riot
H thinks the hall should be kept very quiet
I—for idiots (and there are quite a lot)
J's a joke by George Milton Scott
K's "Unkle Bill" who knows all the tricks
L is the teacher who's known as "Big Six"
M is our dean and every student's friend
N is the nothing we've learned in the end
O's the one with the MUSKETEER
P's our politics—worse every year
Q's the "big question" on a C.G.C. test
R's the "Baron" and one of the best
S knows his chemistry or so it is said
T is the man with the hair that's so red
U—for us who make up each class
V is the victory when all of us pass
W's for "Sergeant" who makes the boys drill
X used to be unknown; I guess it is still
Y is for no other person than you
Z's for the zero which means that you're through.

Snaps

Could this diligent work have been real?

Col. Hains loves his "trigging."

Connie seems very much interested in the Baron.

President Caver, of the Senior class, takes an order for an Academy ring. It is tradition with us that the president of the Senior class should have complete charge of the ring contracts. Jim Mulligan is closing the transaction.

Classes

J. C. A.

Jack Hains looks interestingly at Margaret Sheftall, while Alfred Battey, Betty Andrews, and Tommy Houck seem to be very amused about something. Elle Carswell, the vice-president of the "sophisticated" class was absent, it seems; maybe she was just on the opposite side of the car.

The J.C.A. Sophomores had no trouble in the selection of their officers for this year's group of students. Alfred Battey, president, has steadily risen in popularity among the students. Elle Carswell is our own little ray of sunshine, cheering us up with a congenial word a day. Margaret Sheftall is typical of our vim, vigor, and vitality; and she is very much responsible for the success of our annual. Tommy Houck is a most efficient treasurer. Betty Andrews and Jack Hains are our popular student council representatives. Incidentally, Betty was voted the most popular J. C. A. girl and Jack, the best all-round J. C. A. boy.

Poems

By Margaret Sheftall

AUTUMN

No longer trees of dull, dark green,
They're now a treasure red and gold.
Nature's splashed the woods with colors,
Warm enough to melt the cold.

MUSIC

Sweet music,—a haunting melody that brings thoughts too deep to understand.
Music, that is gay and persuades your sad heart to skip a beat;
Mad rhythm, that makes your feet hum;
Sad music, that brings tears and melancholy,
Glad music, that merely brings a feeling of contentment and happiness;
Stirring music, that makes you inwardly aflame.
Music—What is it?
That strange tempo that stirs the human soul.
Music, that reaches the innermost depths of a human heart;
Music—mysterious, strange, beautiful,
Is it a message of souls?

NIGHT

Night has fallen—dim, cool, stillness,
Every sound has been hushed.
The deep silence is a balm to my tired soul.
O, calm of night, come enfold me;
Let me feel your coolness caress my fevered brow.
Let your dampness seep into my heart, and cool the burning passion there.
Wrap my tangled thoughts in your blackness,
And let Day's turmoil fall shrieking into your deep abyss.
O night, hear my thoughts and hush them;
Know my fears and crush them.
Let me drink deep of your solitude—so calm that its damp sweetness masters me.
Let me for one instant feel your mysterious nearness!

CLASS PHOPHECY OF '40

I adjust all the lights, then I sink in my chair,
All inspiration has vanished in air.
The thoughts in my head have gone out for the night,
And the prophecy or testament I never will write.

Shall I pray to my Muse? That's what Milton would do.
But, gosh! I'm no Milton—and neither are you.
So Sleep, gentle Sleep, the victory is yours,
You may hold here full sway while my fantasy soars.

But say! What's this place? I've not been here before;
And what's on this sign that is hung on the door?
J.C.A.'S GRADUATES OF '40 WILL DINE
AT A BIG CLASS REUNION THIS EVENING AT NINE.

So, in I walked and down I sat,
And listened to news of this and that.
The more I listened, the more I learned,
And here's the gist of what I discerned.

Alfred Battey, handsome and tall,
Was selling tickets to the President's Ball.
In some big city he was chief M. D.,
And his choice expression was, "Now let me see."

Eddie Pierce—so they say,
Went exploring in old S. A.
She found some animals with yellow fur,
And science still wonders what they were.

Margaret Sheftall, tall and slim,
Was modeling clothes for the perfect femme,
Until one day she tripped on her gown
When she saw a certain guy from her "ole home town".

Cason Bruker, fiddle in hand,
Was the proud conductor of a concert band.
He had promised to play his new composition—
To write a hundred was his ambition.

Betty Andrews, chic and fair,
Was wearing jewels in her hair.
She introduced the "Riders' Club Plan"
And smiled as only Betty can.

Virginia Anderson, keen and smart,
Was a star detective right to the heart.
She had cracked some tough cases not long before,
And now she's guarding the Hardy's front door.

Jack Hains, the "colonel", with a dame on his arm,
Was bemoaning the loss of his "model" Farm.
He went on a cruise and mortgaged his land—
He lost the farm, but the trip was grand.

Elisabeth Bryans, in a new red dress,
Had a new degree—M.R.S.
She now could give up that burden she'd borne,
Writing her column "Advice to the Lovelorn".

Sara Jane Chapman, just back from "Paree",
Where she told all the Frenchmen what fashions would be,
Came to the banquet and startled the class
In her gown trimmed with feathers and woven of glass.

Carl Simon, of Wall Street and financial fame,
Lost all his "dough" in a poker game.
Now he's back in Augusta and resolved to stay,
He'll design new lamp-posts for Walton Way.

Celeste Bignon, once a good nurse,
Had a patient with measles, or something far worse.
When they asked her quite simply, "And did the man die?"
She said, "No, my goodness! I married the guy."

Constance Elliott, smart and keen,
Designs for a leading magazine.
She looks just like a fashion plate,
Tall, beautiful, and so sedate.

In town while on tour was "Romeo Bo"
Who'd given up medicine to be a golf pro.
His 9:30 practice helped him achieve fame,
Now even nut sundaes are bearing his name.

Teeny Tucker has changed her name
And though she hasn't achieved such fame,
Still she's a happy and homeloving wife.
My, how she's changed since her college life.

Georgia Paquette and Maxine Farr
Are now in a play in which they star.
They love New York and there they'll stay,
'Cause their names shine brightly on Old Broadway.

Tommy Houck, long and lanky,
Was selling equipment to every Yankee.
His salesman's ability didn't go so far—
Now he's writing a poem, "On A Star".

A business executive was Mary E. Paulk,
Her wonderful efficiency was all the talk.
They made her chairman of all the committees,
And her name was well known in all the big cities.

A great engineer was Francis Jenny.
Although his work cost a "pretty penny,"
He was the most popular contractor in town,
And met all his problems with that dignified frown.

Martha Stelling has a band
The best "All-Girl" one in the land.
Dorothy Timm sings songs so blue,
We knew they'd never separate these two.

Elle Carswell, tiny and gay
Still laughing and talking as yesterday,
Is in a large city hospital far away—
And an efficient nurse she's destined to stay.

Julia Hill, now teaching French,
Says teaching this language is really a cinch.
But since her life now is all work and no play,
She's slowly but surely turning quite gray.

THE

OFFICERS

President	Walter Reiser
Vice-President	Jimmie Cooper
Secretary	Dorothy Douglas
Treasurer	Harry Pund
Student Council	Louis Battey
Student Council	Pat Calhoun

Our Freshman officers are a carefree, intelligent group of students who believe that this year's Freshmen are tops. When we notice who represents this class, we find it easy to believe that it would be hard to beat. Walter "Sonny" Reiser is one of the most popular, and one of the most intellectual, boys in the school. His scholastic record is something for his classmates to aim at. Jimmie Cooper finds time to play some swell basketball and take part in school activities. The one and only girl in the group is Dottie Douglas, who is a good representative of all Junior College girls. Dottie was unanimously voted the most popular Freshman girl. Harry Pund is "one of the boys" in every sense of the phrase. He thinks the clubs in the school are very important for every boy—Pat Calhoun and Louis Battey make able Student Council members. Both of these boys are popular, intelligent, and active J.C.A. Freshmen. Next year's leaders will have to be superlative to pass these officers in any phase of Junior College activity.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE OF AUGUSTA

Retrospect and Prospect

The Junior College of Augusta was established by the Board of Education in 1925. Its founder and original planner was the late Dr. George P. Butler, who became its first president. Unlike many educational institutions, it was no spurious growth, but it came into existence in response to a genuine community need, and from the outset has had the enthusiastic support of the community which it serves. These considerations are its primary elements of strength and offer the principal assurance of its outstanding growth and perpetuity.

The Junior College of Augusta was one of the first public junior colleges founded in this section of the South. Many others have come into existence in this section since the date of its founding, but this institution has held a unique place of leadership among them from the very beginning. This has been due largely to the wisdom of its founders in setting up curricula which were in every sense standard and the equivalent of the first two years in the best four-year standard colleges and universities. In addition to this, its instructional staff has always been composed of men who represent the best scholarship of many of the best American universities, and who have been carefully selected because of their rich experience and eminent success as teachers.

Almost immediately after the Junior College began to function, it was admitted to membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the American Association of Junior Colleges. It is also a member of the Georgia Association of Colleges (senior) and the Association of Georgia Junior Colleges. The strength of its example and the leadership of its Faculty have been strongly felt in the counsels of these associations.

As important as these things are in the life and standing of an educational institution, the final measure of its greatness must be found in its product. That its product is good is evidenced by the eagerness of the senior colleges and universities to get these products. The premiums they are willing to pay are shown by the thousands of dollars worth of scholarships that have been made available to the graduates of the Junior College of Augusta. By actual count these graduates have gone into more than one hundred different American Colleges and Universities. The triennial reports on their success, which have to be made to the Southern Association of Colleges, show that they have all been able to do the work of the higher institutions not only with outstanding success, but in many cases with great distinction. This holds true not only of those going to the Liberal Arts Colleges, but also of those who have gone into the schools of Law, Medicine and Engineering.

The enrollment of the Junior College has been steadily increasing. The total for the present session, 1939-40, is 270 students, about equally divided between young men and young women. In its short life, the Junior College of Augusta has graduated approximately 700 students, approximately 60% of whom have gone on to higher institutions. The total saving to the community has been in round numbers around $2,000,000.00. There has been no enterprise of any kind which has yielded such a dividend in dollars and cents saved, to say nothing of the enrichment of the young life of the community through their contacts with men of fine ideals and high scholarship.

The Junior College of Augusta has the physical equipment with which to do high-grade work. No college in the state has better laboratories. One of the fastest growing features of the college is its splendid Library, housing now over eight thousand carefully chosen volumes and hundreds of unbound publications. It is receiving net accessions of approximately 1500 volumes each year. The greatest immediate need of the Junior College is a special building to take care of its rapidly growing library. Here is the opportunity for some wealthy citizen to build for himself a monument that will outlast the stone and steel that may go into it.

More important than physical equipment is the philosophy of education to which officers and teachers subscribe. The Faculty agrees unanimously that in the process of true education there is no place for sham or superficiality. They subscribe to the proposition that the world needs only men and women of cultivated brains, but above all else of stable character. They believe that the Christian ideal is the finest thing in the world; that there can never be true culture without Christian character. In the midst of a world of cynicism and change, they believe that there are moral values which are eternal and unchanging.

Finally, it should be said that there is no place in the class-rooms or on the campus for the propagandist of any creed or doctrine subversive to the spirit of America. The Junior College of Augusta will maintain at whatever cost the traditions of patriotism and unspoiled Americanism that belong historically to the Community that it will continue to serve.

Henry Caver

The Senior Class officers this year combine brawn with brains to make outstanding officers. All of the boys have impressive athletic and scholastic records. Our president, "Hank" Caver, illustrates what we mean by brawn. He started out as a freshman playing real football. Since then, he has regularly been a member of the football and track teams, each year. His presidency climaxes his record of popularity among his classmates.

Bubber Cole shouldn't be overlooked when anyone talks of "he-men", either. He has been a triple-threat ever since he joined the Richmond football team. Bubber was recently voted the most popular Senior by the A. R. C. student body.

Ralph and Rudolph Chaney have records that should make anyone envious. Both are honor students, very active in student activities, and both are excellent swimmers. A combination within a combination.

Bernard Mitchum is an important member of the Academy Rifle Team and an even more important member of our football team.

Louis Ross is one of the "big" men in the Academy. No one knows that better than the beaten football players who have had the misfortune to tangle with him. Louis won the honor of being named on the All G.I.A.A. football team.

With such a student government, the Senior Class can not fail to progress.

Senior Class Prophecy

May, 1960.

Just twenty years ago at Richmond Academy a yearbook was published which was called the "1940 Rainbow". Somewhere among the pages of that ponderous volume was a Senior Class Prophecy which was written by a certain J.C.A. Freshman whom we shall call Richard Roe. On the faculty of the school at that time was E. M. Allen, professor of French and faculty adviser for the "1940 Rainbow". When the "Rainbow" was printed and Prof. Allen saw the Senior Class Prophecy, he uttered a blood-curdling yell and tore out after poor Roe with bloody murder in his eye.

This chase lasted for twenty long years over land and sea. Finally, just this morning, they happened to come back to Augusta; and from the signs on Broad Street, it was evident that everything which poor Richard had prophesied had been realized. Accordingly, Prof. Allen decided to give up the chase, and he retired to the Mulherin Home for Weary Professors, Steve and Pat, proprietors. Thus freed from his great danger, Richard strolled up and down Broad Street greeting his friends of the class of 1940.

The first person he encountered was Ralph Chaney of the law firm of Chance, Chance, Chaney, and Chaney. Ralph said that their last client had been Leonard Powell in his suit against Major W. A. Elliott. Powell collected $100,000 because his arches had fallen from so much extra drill back at the Academy. Further down the street was a sign which read thus: "Rice and Rice, Piano Tuners. Let Pat and Leo Put You Back on the Right Key." In the window of the Rices' store was a poster announcing the coming championship boxing match between "Slugger" Norman and "Bloody Butch" Watkins. The bout will be staged in Cliff Ward's new giant arena, and the third man in the ring will be that dean of referees, Willie Wallace.

On the directory of the old S.F.C. Building (now called "Cooper's Castle", since Billy Cooper and his partner, Bo Farris, added twenty more stories to it) the following doctors were listed: Baby Specialists—S. Pomerance, W. H. Cato, and E. S. Wolfe; Dog Doctors—R. H. Patrick, R. L. Comley, J. Kearns, and Francis Dales. Among the many law firms listed was the firm of Stringer, Stringer, Stringer, and Turbyfill. The soda fountain in the lobby was owned by Leon D. Rountree, and the chief soda-jerker was Nic Gavalas. As Richard passed through the building, Nic waved a greeting to him. At the back of the building was Medlin's Barber Shop. Seated in one of the chairs was Guy Lewis, a local bricklayer. Other barbers in the shop besides Medlin were Carl Wilson, Lance Card, Charles Allen, and Jack Black.

Richard turned around and came out of the building, and just as he got outside he happened to look up and see an airplane flying over with a sign announcing the coming of Robert Wilkinson and his famous orchestra to Bill Brotherton's new Supper Club on the Washington Road. Wilkinson's musicians are Hugh Elrod and Walton Hamilton, trumpets; Walter Jones and Marshall Brandenburg, clarinets; George McLendon, bazooka; Luke Krewson, washboard; Jack Hoops, jug; Herbert Collier, ocarina; David Stevens, drums; and Clyde Sexton, vocalist. Also featured with the band are Brennan Purkall and Spann Greene, comedians.

Glancing down again, Richard saw a row of pawn shops just below Sears-Roebuck, which, by the way, is under the capable management of George Wright and Jimmy Lang. These pawn shops were all under the supervision of Stanley Goldstein, Morris Goldstein, Ben Popkin, and Lloyd Horton. They sold everything from straight pins to Nevin's all-steel airplanes. Just below these shops was the old Miller Theatre, now the Hammack Opera House, which was closed for repairs.

After leaving the Opera House, Richard was unable to find any more of his old friends; so he went over to the editorial offices of the Augusta Chronicle to inquire about them. The first person he met in the office was Marcus Phillips, reporter for the paper. When Richard inquired about the rest of the class of 1940, Marcus replied, "Well, they've all gone different ways. Of course, you've heard about Hank Caver? He's a cowboy in the movies. Idis Cater is also in the movies; he's a leading man. Paul Amos and Charlie Allerton are radio announcers for CBS. Robert Reid, George Rankin, and Bob Stark teach ballet-dancing in Philadelphia. Freddie Jackson is a deep-sea diver in the navy. Frank Inman makes dolls, and Mike Hummel demonstrates. "Chubby" Engler is manager of the San Francisco Seals and sells buttons in the winter time.

"Bill Young, Jerry Marsh, and Roscoe Lowery are professional pretzel benders, and George Barnes is a wholesale dealer in beer mugs. Ed Barton kills cows in Chicago, and James Hill teaches school in the same city. Phil Scroggs is president of DuPont, and Sammy Heaton is vice-president in charge of waste-baskets. Bill Austin is a tropical explorer, and Teddy Conlon runs a steamship line. Al Adams and T. R. Woodward count sheep for the A. L. Williams Wool Company, and Fred Anderson is a tax-collector in Washington. Billy Bell is a street-sweeper in Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Robert O'Connor is an undertaker's assistant. Bernard Mitchum is a pie-taster for Claussen's Bakery, and Tom Mobley is a Colonel in the Army.

"Ralph Grant is manager of Kress, Inc., Dan Morgan is State Superintendent of Schools; and Walter J. Dunaway is Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Wallace Eavenson makes tooth-picks, and Bernard Collier is a taxi-driver in Atlanta. George Croft is Secretary of Labor, and Duluth Prather is Professor Quiz. Robert Owens makes billiard balls, and Clarence Prather sells score cards at Yankee Stadium. D. M. Whitley pitches for the Giants, and "Josh" Strother plays center for the Celtics. George Stubb runs a steam shovel for the R. C. Sizemore Construction Company, and Dick Goldberg is a time-keeper for the same concern. Jean Levy is a flagman on a W.P.A. project, and Dick Chambers is a policeman in Omaha, Nebraska.

"Shivers Anderson is a card sharp, and Bill Harrison is a street-car conductor. One of the foremost football coaches in the country is A. T. Montgomery at USC. Eugene Avery, chairman of the C.I.O., is always at odds with Bill Jones, president of A.F.L. John Hill is a photographer for "Life", and Hoke is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. D. F. Willis is warden at Sing-Sing, and quite a few members of the class have served time under him. James Phillips is editor of "College Humor", Bill Mauldin is a chiropractor, and A. C. Evans is a fireman on the Santa Fe Railroad. James Ergle is an aviator, and J. H. Parrish flies a Pan-American air-liner. Charles Carter exterminates termites, and Jim Mulligan has invented a fool-proof water pistol."

"Billy Kreisburg is Ambassador to Germany, Fred Kennedy repairs watches, and "Digger" Jordan digs ditches. Alton Kelly is the singer on the Hit Parade, and E. W. Jenkins is head of the Streets and Drains Department of Houston, Texas. Dick Stearns makes suits, and Jimmy Robins beats rugs. W. A. Murphey teaches at the University of Georgia, and L. E. McMichael drives a truck. Clifford Webb grinds lenses for the Horace Shields Optical Company. Louis Ross sells hamburgers in Boston, and Bob Sherman is Professor of Chinese, Japanese and Mayonnaise at North Augusta High School. Dan Smoak draws cartoons for "Esquire" and anybody else who'll buy them.

"Fish Wiggins is a call-boy in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Euly Weathers sells ice cream in Central Park, and Grover Tyner is a guide at the Aiken World's Fair. Mike Toole makes sandwiches in South America, and Bob Warr busts bronchos in New Mexico. J. P. Tankersley paints white-walled tires, Dugie Jennings writes math books for Mr. Mosely, and Fred Johnson sells shoes in Baltimore. James Luke makes popcorn, and W. J. Laughlin sells cotton cloth. Sam Ogletree is a gentleman farmer, and Jim Morehouse runs a filling-station. J. B. Sturgis designs tuxedos, and Billy Hogan runs a novelty shop in Paris. Alfred Heath and Archie Atkinson build bridges, and Allston Bailie runs an alligator farm in Florida. Edgar and James Broome sell mops, and Louis Browne grows muskmelons. Robert Carry, Joe Belding, James Avrett, and Bill Beckum are officers in the Portuguese Navy.

"Arnold Barrett writes dictionaries, James Bartley has an orchestra, and Locke Weems imitates animals on the stage and radio. J. H. Tucker is a chemist, and Manuel Blanos is an acrobat. Monroe Bowyer is a giant in a circus, Sam Cawley teaches people how to fly, and D. D. Livingstone is a fireman in Columbia. Vernon Lamb and Joe Billy Hogan make sound-effects for N B C, and Bill Smith makes piano stools. W. J. Markwalter is a glass-blower, Marvin Seals is an electrician with TVA, and Donald Leverett designs ladies' hats. James Johnson grows cantaloupes, and Bill Britton sells flower pots. Vaughn Fletcher is a heavyweight boxer, Buford Fulghum is an archaeologist, and Harold Crozier is a philologist. Among the foremost geologists of the world are Hugh Hamilton, Clarence Gridley, and Henry Carter. Columns for the New York Times are written by Lionel Gullledge, Bill Davis, James Crawford, Marion Florie, Dan Browne, and Vance Bullock. Dennis Calamas and Bill Bush run a fruit store in Kansas City. I think that accounts for everybody. If there were any more in the class, I guess they must still be in the Academy."

"I think that takes care of all the students," said Richard, "but what happened to all the teachers who used to be up at the school?"

"Most of them went crazy, some of them committed suicide, and some of them just got disgusted and quit," answered Phillips. "But I'll have to be going now. I've got to go see Mr. Hardy about writing an article on the joys of being president of a high school."

With these words Phillips was gone, and Richard was left standing in the office and thinking about the time he (accidentally, of course) hit Mr. Hardy with that rotten banana.

Our Branch

The tree of life has slowly aged,
Yet trunk still firm it ever stands;
Forever strong when tempest raged,
No mortal saw when life began;
Nor does he know that roots may rend
And mortal life to meet its end.

Each opened bough from ancient stem
A branch of life on Earth today,
And crumbled leaves and fallen limbs
They are the past who went life's way;
But see the tender shoots that grow
Replacing weary branches so.

Oh slender twigs that are our youth,
New leaflets there together clung,
Each day the branches grow forsooth;
Someday those limbs will not be young,
But we, the leaves, in ev'ry class
Will cling as long as branches last.

—James Hill

Last Will and Testament of the Class of Nineteen Hundred Forty of the Academy of Richmond County

STATE OF GEORGIA,
COUNTY OF RICHMOND.

We, the class of nineteen hundred forty of the Academy of Richmond County, being of sound and disposing mind; realizing the imminence of the day upon which we shall be compelled to tear ourselves away from these pleasant surroundings to fight for our existence in the cruel world; understanding that those whom we leave behind us are practically devoid of certain qualities which we possess and which are no longer of any use to us; and being anxious to avail ourselves of this last opportunity to contribute something of value to those we love so well, do hereby make, declare, ordain, and publish this instrument as our last Will and Testament, TO-WIT:

- ITEM 1. To "Duck" Bailie, Bob Sherman leaves his uncanny knack for repairing streamlined automobiles.
- ITEM 2. To some deserving Junior, Robert Sizemore leaves the position of Regimental Sergeant-Major, megaphone and all.
- ITEM 3. To Paul Plunkett, Monroe Bowyer leaves four inches of his height so that Paul won't have to stand on his tip-toes to put his money on the lunch-room counter.
- ITEM 4. To Asbury Gridley, Woodall Greene leaves his fair face and beautiful hair, trusting that Asbury will be as much of a lady-killer as Woodall was.
- ITEM 5. To any who may need them, Hugh Hamilton leaves one bundle of unused excuses, with the hope that they will all be acceptable to the office.
- ITEM 6. To Little Georgie Ewing, the entire Senior Class leaves one automatic paper-corrector, so that Georgie will have more time to spend with the debutantes.
- ITEM 7. To Kessel Stelling and Arthur Mosely, Hubert King and Bernard Wolff bequeath the Alpha Lambda Sigma, trusting that Kessel and Arthur will be able to instill in the students of the Academy of Richmond County a love and appreciation for things literary.
- ITEM 8. To Gene Evans, Junior Powell leaves his "Jitterbugging" ability, provided that Gene will agree to "swing out" publicly at least once a day.
- ITEM 9. To the members of the "B" Varsity Basketball team, Frank Inman, Ben Popkin, and Josh Strother leave our perennial hopes for a GIAA title.
- ITEM 10. To "Ol' Man Mose" Moseley, his Math classes leave one brand new shiny tractor in the fond hope that his crop this season will be a huge success.
- ITEM 11. To Julian Gwin, Eugene Avery bequeaths the position of center on the varsity football squad with the hope that Julian will hold down the position as ably, but not as long, as Gene did.
- ITEM 12. To "Manager" Scott, Roscoe Lowery and Jerry Marsh leave one water bucket, one roll of tape, and a wheelbarrow in order that Scott may be able to satisfy the wants of next year's football team.
- ITEM 13. To anyone who will take them, Fish Wiggins leaves several megaphones and a lusty voice, hoping that said person will be able to put some pep into the cheering at next year's games.
- ITEM 14. To all the lower classmen, we, the distinguished graduates, bequeath our ability to study, notwithstanding the fact that some of us have been in the Academy for as many as seven years.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hand and seal this 22nd day of February, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty.

Signed:

THE SENIOR CLASS OF A.R.C.

WITNESSES:

I. Bee, M.D.; Oscar Q. Punchdrunk; and Confucius.

Student Council	R. W. Barton
Student Council	Ashby Taylor

"Full of spirit and life, but serious when it comes to doing their duty", characterizes the group of officers for the Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman Academy classes for the year 1940. Although full of outstanding people, the classes are noted for the presence of the Reiser boys, especially, because both are presidents of their respective classes, and they have a "big brother," Walter, who is president of J. C. A. Freshman class. The football team is well represented by Joe Murray and Julian Gwin, and Ashby Taylor is a "star" on the A. R. C. golf team.

All of these boys have a certain quality of school spirit which lends itself to that of their fellow-classmen.

Significant Facts about Academy

Compiled by C. G. Cordle

July 31, 1783, Board of Trustees set up by the General Assembly of Georgia in session at Augusta.

April 12, 1785, the Richmond County Academy opened in a building on Bay Street between the present Fourth and Third Streets.

May 20, 1791, President Washington visited the Academy.

End of 1798 the Academy closed because of impaired funds and dilapidated buildings.

November 1, 1802, the Academy resumed operations in a new building on Telfair Street.

July 1, 1816, a branch academy was opened by the Trustees on the Sand Hills.

1830's, the Academy had more than four hundred students.

1850, there was talk of raising the Academy to a college, to be named Tubman College.

September 1, 1863, the Academy building was taken over by the Confederate government, and the grounds became the site of Georgia Hospital No. 3. The Academy was, of course, closed.

May 2, 1865, sick and wounded soldiers were removed to the Asylum Hospital. In a few days the Academy building became military headquarters of the United States troops.

Fall, 1867, the Academy building and grounds were restored to the Trustees.

January 1, 1868, the Academy reopened with four professors, all Confederate veterans, with Colonel George W. Rains as regent.

1882, a military department was organized under Captain J. O. Clarke as instructor. After a few years this department was abolished.

1898, the military department was revived, and Major George P. Butler was made commandant

1909, the Richmond County Board of Education, by agreement with the Trustees of Richmond Academy, assumed responsibility for the operation of the school.

1925, The Junior College of Augusta was founded.

1926, the Academy of Richmond County was removed to its new site on Baker Avenue.

1926, unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps was established by the United States government in the Academy and Junior College.

Fall, 1938, new wing of the Academy building was opened to classes.

SPONSORS

Each year the officers of the Military Department choose a sponsor. These sponsors are honored at several military balls during the year. The sponsors are presented formally at a lovely banquet given by the Sabre Club. After the banquet, the brilliant Sponsors' Ball is held. This is one of the outstanding formals of the year. An arch of sabres is formed; and, as each charming sponsor, beautifully gowned, comes through on the arm of an officer, it is indeed a picturesque scene.

At the Prize Drill, held each year, the sponsors attend in a body, to review the companies on parade.

The Richard B. Sheridan Memorial Sabre

One of the most beautiful of the numerous awards made at the Academy and Junior College each year is that of the Richard B. Sheridan Memorial Sabre. Cadet Sheridan graduated from the Junior College in June 1928 and immediately went on to West Point. He lost his life in a football game at Yale in 1931.

The Reserve Officers Association of Augusta conceived the idea of making an annual award of a beautiful sabre to perpetuate not only the memory but the outstanding character of Cadet Sheridan. The basis of this award is broad enough to cover the general qualities that distinguish Richard B. Sheridan among his fellow students. These considerations enter into the decision of a select committee from the Reserve Officers Association. The student must be of high scholastic achievement, outstanding as a military man, and interested in athletics and other student activities. In other words, he must be a well-rounded man.

The winners of this award have been as follows:

Frank Burnley	1933
Jackie Stephens	1934
Dorroh Nowell	1935
Alex Doremus	1936
Harry Mobley	1937
Jack Hains	1938
Jones Epps	1939

The winner for the current year, 1940, had not yet been determined at the time this year book went to press.

Accomplishments of the Freshman Battalion

By Staff Sergeant Wm. C. McGee

The Freshman Battalion, although not a part of the R.O.T.C., functions independently in regard to the War Department's program of instruction. It plays a very important role in maintaining the strength of the R.O.T.C.

Freshmen are taught the fundamental principles of Military Science and Tactics. Individual instruction and close-order drill of the squad are intended especially for the training of the men in the ranks. Teamwork is promoted, and training is afforded for leaders, squads, platoons, and guides. Preciseness is essential if the purpose of drill is to be achieved.

Due to the drastic change in the Infantry Drill Regulations, much confusion was noticed for awhile. The Battalion responded very well; and the difficulty, due to the intricate movements, is now a thing of the past.

The cadet officers are selected from the Senior Class of the Academy and from Junior College; but the Non-Commissioned Officers are Freshmen. The officers are chosen for their merit, and they are the ones who have the responsibility for carrying out our schedule. We stress leadership. To be respected as a leader, one must possess certain mental and moral qualifications. To have a good organization, certain requirements must be adhered to: respect for superiors, a keen sense of responsibility, and ability to give and to obey orders. The officers must set a good example for those under their command.

The battalion has taken part in several parades, and it has made a creditable showing. The majority have a good keen sense of humor, and really try hard. They perform their duties on the drill field in a satisfactory manner. They change from raw recruits to well-trained cadets, able to march with heads up and chins in—a credit to the unit.

So our ideal for the future will be to have the outstanding unit in the Fourth Corps Area, and to uphold the grand and glorious prestige of the Army and of the Academy of Richmond County. To those two grand gentlemen, Mr. Hardy and Mr. Markert, a vote of thanks for their hearty cooperation in making it possible for us to function one hundred per cent.

An organization which has been in existence in the Academy since before any of us can remember is the Sabre Club. This organization has a history which no other group in the school can match, and its traditions are so firmly entrenched in the school life that they will exist for years and years. The club was organized way back when the Academy instituted military training, and it has grown in size from about ten members to more than sixty.

The purpose of the club is the provision of entertainment or recreation, social or otherwise, for the members of the club and any form of betterment of the military department of the Junior College of Augusta and the Academy of Richmond County. Membership in the Sabre Club is restricted to the commissioned officers of the corps of cadets, and all these officers are required by army tradition to join the club.

At the beginning of the first semester last fall, the members of the club elected officers for the year. Col. Jack Hains was elected president, Maj. Battey, vice-president, Lieut. Harcourt Waller, secretary, and Maj. O'Neal Cave, treasurer. During the first semester two dances were presented under the direction of the club dance committee. The dance committee was composed of Col. Irvin Daiteh, Capt. Albert Bruckner, Lieut. Tom Gwin, and Capt. Ernest Wiggins.

Shortly after the Christmas holidays were over, the members decided that the club was too large to be governed by unwritten law and tradition, and a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution. This committee was composed of Lieut. Harry Popkin, Lieut. Roscoe Lowery, Maj. Alfred Battey, Maj. W. T. Brown, and Capt. John Roesel. The committee drew up a very laudable document, which, after several corrections and adjustments, was unanimously accepted by the members.

The constitution provides for four administrative officers (president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer), to be elected at the beginning of each semester of the school year. Under the constitution the meetings are held on the second and fourth Tuesday of each calendar month, at the beginning of the seventh clock period of the school. All members must attend the meetings, and any member who is absent without excuse from two meetings in one semester is subject to expulsion from the club. All the meetings must be conducted according to parliamentary procedure, and Robert's Rules of Order will be the final authority on all questions of parliamentary law not covered by the constitution or the by-laws.

Under the constitution the committees set up were Advisory, Appeals, Finance, and Entertainment. The president appoints a chairman for the Finance and Entertainment Committees; then he and the chairman together appoint the remaining committee members. The duties of these two committees are explained by their titles. The Appeals Committee consists of three members; one is appointed by the president, one by the Advisory Committee, and the other is elected by popular vote. The Appeals Committee acts as a sort of "Supreme Court" for the club, and its decisions are superior to any except those of the Advisory Committee. The Advisory Committee is composed of the commandant of the cadet corps and any other person he may appoint to act with him; its duties are to advise the club in all matters.

Under the new regulations the following officers were elected for the second semester: Col. Jack Hains, president; Maj. O'Neal Cave, vice-president; Lieut. Harry Popkin, secretary; Maj. Jones Epps, treasurer; and Lieut. Charles Askey, sergeant-at-arms. Capt. Bill Smith was elected by the members to serve on the Appeals Committee. Also on the Appeals Committee are Maj. Alfred Battey, appointed by President Hains, and Col. Irvin Daitch, appointed by the Advisory Committee. Col. Daitch was also appointed by the president to act as chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

Under this new "regime" the Sabre Club is looking forward to greater accomplishments than ever before. The Sabre Club dance on March 29, the first entertainment presented by the new committee, proved to be one of the most successful social functions of the year; and the members of the club and the entire school are looking forward with great interest to the Annual Sabre Club Banquet and the Sponsors' Ball. These will be held shortly before the end of school, and the Entertainment Committee declares that this year these two events will be the most gala affairs ever presented by the club. And that's saying a mighty lot; for the Sabre Club is noted for its wonderful social events.

The club has indeed had a busy year. There was never a dull moment in the life of the organization, and the officers feel that the club accomplished its purpose in the fullest sense of the word. Always a center of activity, this tradition-laden organization held its reputation of being in the front ranks among student organizations, and we feel sure that 50 or 60 years from now, the Sabre Club will still have an important part in the life of our school.

The Greater Richmond Academy Band

The Academy Band has been one of the most important organizations on the Campus for many years. The late D. M. Lincul, who brought it to a high state of proficiency, had been its director on a part time basis since the acceptance of the Cadet Corps as a Junior R.O.T.C. unit by the War Department in 1925. As a musician and director, Mr. Lincul was devoted to his work and untiring in his efforts to develop an outstanding musical organization.

When our new president, Mr. Eric W. Hardy, took over the administration of the schools in 1938, he at once announced his purpose to build a great band of one hundred pieces, which should be properly uniformed and equipped. As a result of efforts among alumni and friends, and particularly the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, by the spring of 1939 nearly two thousand dollars had been raised for the purchase of uniforms. The band got into their snappy uniforms before the close of that session, and upon their first public appearances captured the interest and enthusiasm of the people of the community.

The next step was to procure a full-time Director and Music Instructor. Mr. Grover W. Carson was brought to the Academy after successful experience in Illinois, Kentucky, and Missouri. Mr. Carson is devoting his talents and energies not only to directing the present Band, but to training the younger students in the use of wind instruments in preparation for their absorption into the greater band of the future. We are building slowly, but sanely, toward the "Greater Richmond Academy Band", and the complete realization of the dream of our President that we should some day have the greatest school band in the South. We are definitely on the way.

COACHES

Coach Wendell Sullivan arrived at the Academy in September, 1937, from Decatur High School, where he was instructor and coach. The first year here he was backfield coach, and the following year he was appointed head coach. At once he began to show definite results in the building of a great football team. The success of Coach "Sully" is due both to the fact that he knows the game and also to the fact that he is every inch a gentleman in his relations to his assistants and players. The boys love to work for him, simply because they love him. With our enlarged football program under the direction of Coach Royston, by which we are trying to give elementary instruction on the fundamentals of the various athletic games to the grade school students, Coach Sullivan hopes to build greater teams in the future.

Resume OF "A"

The Academy opened the season on September 29 with Bolles High School of Jacksonville, Florida. The cadets started to work on the Bolles eleven at the opening whistle and continued to run roughshod over them until the final gun. Henry Caver grabbed the limelight with his exceptional ball toting, accounting for eighteen of the Academy's thirty-three points. Johnson and Sanders cleared the path for Caver's long runs with their excellent blocking. The team's splendid playing proved that the Academy hadn't graduated all its good football players. Score: Richmond 33—Bolles 0.

The next game was with the Commercial High from Atlanta on October 6. The Musketeers showed that it hadn't been all luck with Bolles. They displayed both power and speed in downing a favored Commercial High team. Although outweighed, the scrappy Richmond team, led by Caver, gathered three touchdowns to their credit. Strother was the spotlight-grabber with his fine blocking, tackling, and pass-snagging. Sullivan was indeed proud of his fighting eleven. Score: Richmond 18—Commercial 7.

VARSITY SCHEDULE

October 13. Tough luck and hot weather proved too much for the Musketeers. Sad and disappointed, they returned home with a scoreless tie on their record book. Richmond made the only threat when they backed the hard-pressed Savannahians up to their own 4-yard line. There a fumble prevented a score. At this game we recognized Sanders as the fine tackler that he really is.

After a week's layoff the rejuvenated Academy lads met the Fighting Irish from Savannah on October 27. To the joy of Coach Sullivan and the entire student body the record book showed a win for the Musketeers. It was a hard-fought game from beginning to end. Avery was too much for his heavier opponents; while Johnson, Caver, and Cole were too fleet to be stopped before gain was made. This game proved that the Musketeers were still in the running for the G.I.A.A. title. Score: Richmond 13—Benedictine 7.

hard running sparked the team to one of the best performances of the year. Strother, Willis, Ross, and Sanders were the defensive aces that kept the Irish lads back on their heels. Score: Richmond 6—Marist 0.

The highly-rated Aggies came to the Cadet stadium on the night of November 17, only to be outplayed. The Musketeers showed themselves to be superior in every phase of the game, but lacked the necessary punch in the third quarter when the ball was on Monroe's two-yard line. Missing their chances, the Cadets lost to Monroe and were toppled from the running in the G.I.A.A. "Bubber" Cole took the limelight with his "spot" passing and splendid running. It is interesting to note that this was the first game that the Academy team had lost in their stadium in 2 years. Score: A.R.C. 6—Monroe 7.

Carlisle came to Augusta on November 23 to get revenge for the lashing the cadets gave them the year before. The Musketeers were too much for the Bamberg eleven. After five cadet plays, blood was drawn. From that time on, the Sullivan eleven dominated the Turkey Day game. Sully loosened up and gave some of the bench boys their chance. A combination of the second and third teams continued the march, crossing pay dirt territory for the second time in the first quarter, and once each in the second and fourth. Score: Richmond 27—Carlisle 0.

To end the season an inspired Lanier High team came to Augusta to administer to the cadets a very bitter defeat. The one point margin which defeated the Academy was the only point after touch-down scored by the Lanier team during their season. Score: Richmond 6—Lanier 7.

"A" Varsity

The 1939-40 basketball season opened December 14, 1939, against Warrenton with a victory for the Academy. Enthusiastic fans saw returning to the court four lettermen: Center, Clinton Strother; Forwards, Ben Popkin and Frank Inman; and Guard, John Burroughs. These boys had bowed out of the G.I.A.A. finals of the previous year only after giving the strong Lanier Poets of Macon a severe test.

The big problem for Sullivan and the handicap for the players was the lack of height. Clinton Strother, center, and actually the only tall member of the cadet team, had only Howard Willis to assist him on the snatch of loose balls off the backboard. In other qualifications, the boys of this year's team could have held their own on any court. Inman and Popkin, for example, were unquestionably the best combination of forwards produced at the school in recent years. "Chink" Hardy, small in stature, was "large" in playing ability. This year Sullivan developed the best set of reserves in many years; indeed, the second string was really a substitute string, their combination usually proving as effective as the first. The second string was composed of Burroughs, Atkinson, Culpepper, Wilson, and Plunkett.

In G.I.A.A. games played the Academy won three and lost four; however, they were highly successful in defeating such teams as S. C. Freshmen, Bishop England, and Junior College.

Coach Sullivan has made a new kind of basketball history for the A.R.C. His teams have been very successful through the years, and the 1939-40 team was certainly no exception. The boys really co-operate with Coach "Sully." The team work and fine play of the members of the team reflect the finest type of coaching.

J. C. A. BOYS

Much credit for the success of the 1940 team should be given to Coach Rollins. He took an inexperienced team and developed it into a well-organized and hard-playing aggregation. Although many of the boys had never played basketball before this season, the team excelled in spirit, team work, and sportsmanship. What they lacked in experience, they made up by their hard work and diligent practice. The team was built around the three most seasoned players: Popkin, Cave, and Askey. A new star who became the spark of all plays was Jack Bishop, a forward. Popkin and Cave were excellent as guards, using their talents to the best effect. Charles Askey and Harcourt-Waller were the pivot men for many well-developed and well-perpetrated offensive plays that were found useful many times. Whenever the need for substitution arose, Cooper, Krouse, Bolgla, Parks, and Kimbrell were present to step into the shoes of the regulars.

Although the team lacked experience and therefore failed to repeat the banner successes of last year, the season was by all means a good one. The team entered with the faster and stronger teams in the City League and Gold Medal Tournament and made a creditable showing in both.

Their schedule for the season paired them with some of the strongest college teams in this section. The inspired Junior College boys played their best games against these teams, licking G.M.A., always a strong team, to the tune of 39-34, and Brewton-Parker by 45-44. Good passing and hard play gave our boys a win over Gordon Military College. In the game with Newberry, the J.C.A. quintet got the jump on the South Carolinians and smothered them.

The Rollins five dropped from the lead early in the City League, but their fighting spirit and their never-say-die determination kept them in the running until the end. Although not victorious, our boys will be remembered by their opponents and by witnesses of the games for their splendid team work and sportsmanship.

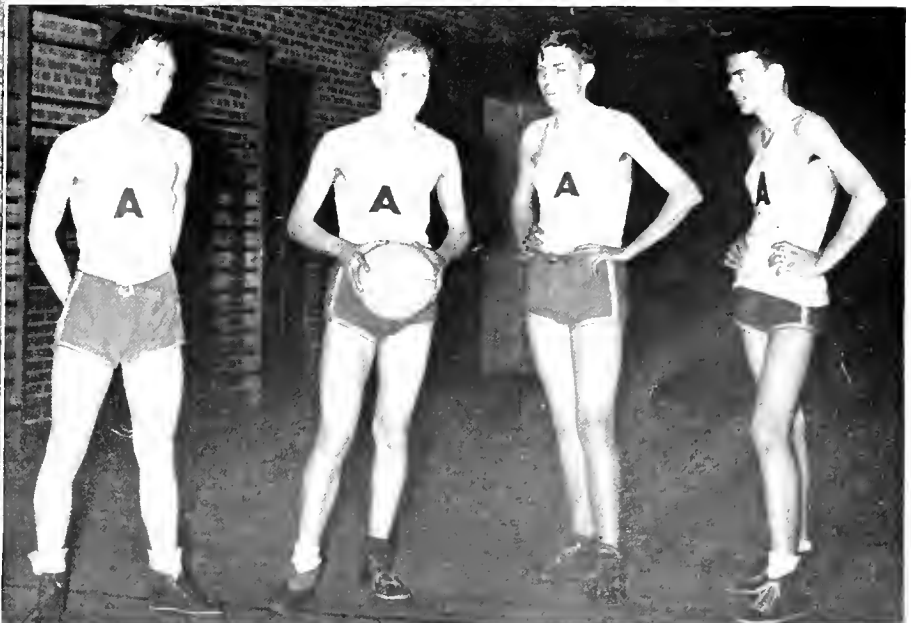

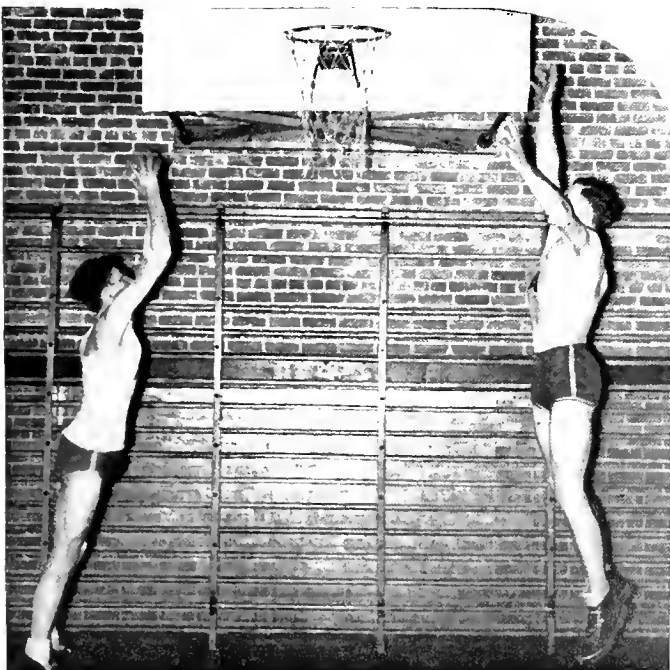

In the Gold Medal Tournament the college lads failed to reach their usual stride and were eliminated early.

When J.C.A. ventured to Douglas for the opening round of the Junior College tournament, they were handicapped by a long trip and by the fact that their first game was with one of the strongest of the college teams. This proved too much for them, and they were eliminated in the first round.

Girls BASKETBALL

The Junior College Girls' Basketball Team of this year has retained the reputation for success and performance that has been maintained throughout the years. As a defensive team, they have shown unusual ability; their opponents have had to work extremely hard for every point scored. As an offensive team, their outstanding virtue has been in their clever handling of the ball.

The spark plug for the 1940 team was the tricky and sharpshooting Dot Fulcher, who averaged better than twenty-five points per game. Her sense of timing and sportsmanlike team play were a source of wonder to her fans and admirers.

The girls of the 1940 basketball team are gratefully appreciative for the loyal and sympathetic help and instruction of Coach Charlie Royson. His teams, all through the years, have been wonderfully successful. His reputation as a referee is just as fine as that of his coaching. Among many other tournaments this year, he was selected to referee the G.I.A.A.

Leading the students in cheers at the football games this year are these students. Their leadership does much toward building up school spirit and in cheering our football team on to victory. Mascot for the cheer leaders is Monroe Bowyer, who really does his part in leading cheers. Ernest Wiggins is head cheer leader and he has helped compose many pep songs and cheers.

Golf is one of the more successful minor sports in the Academy. Bolstered from way back by such families as the Hummels, the Zimmermans, the Mulherins, the Ogilvies, the Wallers, and the Harisons, the A.R.C. golf teams have been successful in their quest for victories every year. This year, with Ashby Taylor, Steve Mulherin, Gummy and Phil Harison, and Paul Hammock all contributing to make one of the finest golf teams ever produced at the Academy, we hope to have the most successful season yet. With these boys under the capable leadership of Coach George Ewing, we need have no fears over the 1940 Academy golf team.

FACTS ABOUT OUR Stadium

The Stadium of the Academy of Richmond County was erected by the Athletic Committee during the summer of 1930. It cost approximately $21,000.00 and was built with money saved by the Athletic Committee and the Student Activities Committee over a period of some fifteen or more years. The Stadium seats over 3,000 people and provides adequate dressing and training rooms for the athletic teams. On October 11, 1930, the dedication ceremonies were held in the Stadium, our team playing their traditional rival, Riverside Military Academy. The dedication exercises presented a colorful spectacle. The Riverside student body and band, as well as Richmond's student body and band, participated in the ceremonies. Mr. M. T. Bryson, the chairman of the Athletic Committee, formally presented the Stadium to the Board of Education through the Board's president, Dr. George Woodbury. As a climax to the ceremonies, Richmond defeated their rivals by a score of 12 to 0. Tatum Gressett was head coach at that time.

During the years following the building of the stadium, it became increasingly evident that we needed to have our Stadium lighted for night games. In 1936, through the assistance of the City Council of Augusta, adequate lights were installed, thus greatly increasing the usefulness of the plant.

Our Stadium is used by many and varied groups. The A.R.C. football teams, of course, play and practise there. The Boy Scouts hold their Annual Circus in the Stadium. The past three years have seen the Reserve Corps of the Marines use the field one night each week for drill. Our own Military Department holds the annual Prize Drill and the exercises for presentation of honors and awards in the Stadium, presenting a colorful and romantic climax to the year's activities.

Our Stadium is an important asset to our school and to the City of Augusta. The Board of Education, the Athletic Association, the students of the Academy and Junior College, and the citizens of Augusta have made possible this valuable addition to our school; we are indebted to all who have participated in giving us the Stadium.

ACTIVE LIFE ON OUR Gym

When the Richmond Academy building was erected in 1925, the Building Committee of the Board of Education, recognizing the need of an adequate gymnasium, had the architects include the present gymnasium and dressing and shower rooms in their plans. From the beginning the gym has proved itself an important part of our school, and has become increasingly important in the life and activities of the school.

There is scarcely any time during the year when the gym is not in use. During the entire school session some form of athletic activity is taking place, from drill for the football team on rainy days in the fall of the year to the climax of basketball games of the Academy, Junior College, and Grammar School League in the spring of the year. The gym has been used for regular gym classes, although at present, because of finances, this part of our school curriculum is temporarily suspended. In particular, the gym is adapted to basketball; it has one of the finest basketball courts of any gym in the State, and has been the arena of many hard fought and important games with Richmond's G.I.A.A. rivals.

The gym is unusually well adapted for dances. It has been the scene of many colorful and picturesque Student Council dances. The climax of the social season of the school, and the last of the dances held here is the Annual Commencement Hop. Many a sweet conquest has been made at the school dances, and perhaps it is as the scene of such activities as these that the girls, and boys too, will best remember in the years to come our Gymnasium.

GOLD CLUB

The Gold "R" Society, founded in 1931, is recognized as the outstanding honor organization of the Academy. Its purpose is to stimulate the interest of students in all branches of student activity. Points counting toward the forty required for election to membership may be obtained in scholarship, athletics, R.O.T.C., and general student activities, including work on publications, declamation, and debate teams, glee club, and orchestra, and special contests that reflect credit on the school. Points in leadership are awarded to class officers, members of the student council, and captains of teams. Students are not awarded a Gold "R" unless they live up to the highest standards of character and maintain a satisfactory scholastic record.

PHI THETA KAPPA

Phi Theta Kappa is a non-secret honorary organization. A student must have a general average for the first three semesters in all work scheduled of 90% or above. The object of this fraternity is to promote scholarship, to develop character, and to cultivate fellowship among the students of both sexes of the Junior Colleges of the United States.

The Phi Theta Kappa Key is a symbol for the high idealism of the members of this select group. This key is a golden slab keyed at the top and bottom. The gold field refers to the golden opportunities abounding on every hand. Across the slab is a black band which stands for the three ideals that band us together and for self-control which is the foundation of Wisdom, Aspiration, and Purity. Shining through this black background are the three Greek words meaning Wisdom, Aspiration, and Purity. On one side is a wreath of oak leaves, standing for stability and strength characterized by the oak. The other side of the wreath has the leaves of the laurel signifying achievement and success; all of these attributes are necessary for membership in this fraternity. Above the band is the head of Minerva, the goddess of Learning.

The Spanish Club was organized at the beginning of the school year. The purpose was to create better feeling among the Junior College students taking Spanish, and to increase these students' Spanish-speaking ability.

Meetings are held bi-monthly at the homes of the various members, and a period of recreation is held after each meeting. The small dues paid each week are held in reserve for at least two social functions which take place annually.

The club belongs to the International Student Society, a national organization, from which it received a charter and pins.

At the end of the first semester, all high school boys making an honor grade were permitted to join the Spanish Club.

The Pre-Law Club is one of the oldest clubs in the school. It was organized for the purpose of acquainting interested boys with the profession of law. The club meets every Wednesday night at 7:30 P. M. at the Y.M.C.A. During the past year, the club has sponsored numerous social and educational events; among them being "steak fries", trials, banquets, and many interesting lectures from prominent local attorneys. As a result of the work of this club, many of the past members have been helped to become well-known lawyers.

A "Jam Session" with Maestro Galloway conducting.

1940 was a big year for Mr. Galloway's Glee Club members. First, they produced a Gypsy operetta "Choquita", which was a real success. Then, the boys and girls had so much fun together and cooperated so well with their vocal talents, that Mr. Galloway decided to take them on several out-of-town trips. With this promise as an incentive, the membership of the club increased. And with Mr. Anderson as pianist, and Mr. H. O. Read, as adviser, the club reached a new high in skill and recreation.

The Rho Chi is an organization made up entirely of pre-medical students. The object of this organization is to bring together the pre-medical students and to create interest in the pre-medical work in Junior College. The Rho Chi holds its meeting every other Tuesday night at the Y.M.C.A. During the year many prominent medical men talked at the meetings. Various medical subjects were discussed. Also of great interest were the movies of surgical operations that were shown a number of times this year. Several trips were taken to the hospital where lectures on pharmacy were given and exhibitions of surgery were shown. Socials were also given throughout the year. These included steak fries, parties, and banquets, which were attended and enjoyed by all.

THE Musketeer

Campus Newspaper

"The Musketeer," official newspaper of the A.R.C.-J.C.A. student body, was published four times a semester by the staff under the direction of Mr. W. P. Watkins. The members of the editorial staff were handicapped by lack of experience, but they stuck to their guns and turned out a wonderful job.

Here are the editors discussing the make-up of the school paper. Left right, they are: Lane Jackson, Walter Reiser, and Harry Popkin.

The purpose of "The Musketeer" is to give the students a picture of the important happenings around the campus and to promote the interests of the school in any way possible. Each member of the staff is assigned to several different clubs, and it is his duty to report all the important happenings for the paper. News outside of the clubs is gathered by special reporters. There are also several columnists, who write the featured columns such as "Whispers", "Gems From Other Mines", etc.

The J.C.A. Hi-Y, one of the most outstanding organizations among the members of the student body, is composed of the most prominent boys in J. C. A. Before a boy can be elected into the club, he must be unanimously approved by all the members.

The purpose of the Hi-Y is to instill in the youth of today the principles of Christian character. Each year the J.C.A. Hi-Y conducts a Bible study course which is prepared by the State Hi-Y headquarters. The J.C.A. group is affiliated with the state and national Hi-Y organizations, and J.C.A. representatives attend all the statewide conferences and conventions.

A secondary purpose of the club is to provide entertainment for the members, and this purpose was indeed realized this year. The outstanding social events were the semi-monthly joint banquets with the girls' Y.W.C.A. Club. These banquets were an innovation this year, and their success insures their continuance.

In every way, the J.C.A. Hi-Y had a very successful year, and the retiring members look forward to an even better year in 1941.

J. C. A. HI-Y

ACADEMY Hi-Y

The Academy Hi-Y has as its purpose: To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of christian character".

The club is made up of twenty-five boys selected from the three upper classes of the Richmond Academy. These boys are selected on the basis of their character, scholarship, and extra-curricula activities.

Meetings of the club are held every Monday night at the Y.M.C.A. under the supervision of Major W. A. Elliott, faculty adviser.

Officers of the club are elected semi-annually at the first meeting of each semester. Officers for the first semester of the 1939-40 school year were: Frank Inman, President; Haywood Bateman, Vice-President; Louis Browne, Secretary; John Burroughs, Treasurer; Gene Avery, Chaplain, and Louis Ross, Sergeant-at-Arms. The officers for the second semester were: Louis Browne, President; Roscoe Lowery, Vice-President; Frank Inman, Secretary; Hubert King, Treasurer; James Hill, Chaplain, and Gene Avery, Sergeant-at-Arms.

A few of the important speakers to address the club recently have been Dr. Leonard Knowles, Dean A. P. Markert, and Wild Life Ranger Ed Friend.

Among the more important projects of the Club have been Christmas and Thanksgiving offerings for distribution to the needy. The present club hopes that the high ideals of the Hi-Y may be maintained in the Academy during the ensuing years.

RICHMOND Hi-Y

The purpose of the Richmond Hi-Y is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character.

There is a total of thirty members in the club. The boys in the club are selected from the three upper classes of the Richmond Academy. They are selected on the basis of their character, and extra-curricula activities.

The meetings are held every Tuesday night at 7:30. The faculty advisers are Mr. G. L. Bolton, Mr. A. E. Anderson, and Mr. F. M. Harriss. These fine advisers are assisted by Mr. Parker, who is the Boys Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

The officers are elected at the beginning of the semester. For the first semester they were: Rudolph Chaney, president; Ralph Chaney, vice-president; Robert O'Connor, secretary; "Digger" Jordan, treasurer; Bob Sherman, chaplain; and Dugie Jennings, sergeant-at-arms. The officers for the second semester are: Wayland Cato, president; Bob Sherman, vice-president; Allston Bailie, secretary; Jimmie Morehouse, treasurer; Guy Lewis, chaplain; and Ralph Chaney, sergeant-at-arms.

Among the most important projects of the club have been the giving of Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to the needy—and the presentation of the National Hi-Y picture to the school library.

During the second semester, the club selected a fine program committee. This committee came forward with a program on vocations and hobbies. Interesting programs filled the whole semester with entertainment and education.

Each member of the Red Cross Life Savers Club has passed a course in Life Saving under a qualified instructor. At the end of two weeks during which the boys and girls were required to spend two hours in the water daily, they were given an exam, in which each life saver had to demonstrate his ability to save a life. The courses were given at local bathing ponds.

Alpha Lambda Sigma was founded by several of the prominent members and literary leaders of the class of 1937, namely: Claude Hill, Eugene Goetchius, Leslie Youngblood, Bill Cochrane, and Paul Bailey. This group of young worthies threw out bodily the old Literary Society which used to meet once a week at the end of the sixth period. They then proceeded to draw up a constitution, and, in fact, formed a totally new Literary Society.

Officers are elected at the first meeting of each semester. Great rivalry was shown between the opposing sides in this affair, and the club quickly split into opposing political parties which wielded great influence in the elections. At the finish, however, all the members professed to be thoroughly satisfied with the results.

Meetings are usually held in a prevailing atmosphere of parliamentary procedure, but at times unwarranted outbursts of some of the members lend meaning to the oft-quoted proverb, "Boys will be boys."

The programs, which are constantly improving, are usually very interesting. The participants in the programs gain valuable experience in the arts of public speaking, declaiming, debating, etc. Several interesting debates have been held, news has been aptly summarized and edited for the benefit of the members, and jokes told.

The only thing upon which all the members have agreed is that they have the best and most dependable faculty advisers of any club on the campus. They are Messrs. Hughey and Hardy.

DeMOLAY

The Order of DeMolay is one of the finest and strongest organizations for youth in America today. In its halls are taught invaluable lessons which prepare its youth for approaching manhood. DeMolay endeavors to bridge the gap between this youth and manhood. Some of the more important principles are: Cleanness in thought, word, body, and deed; Reverence for all things sacred; Courtesy toward all with whom the DeMolay comes in contact; Fidelity to his ideals, to his comrades, and to his obligations; Patriotism—a love of country which makes him live worthily in time of peace or die bravely if the need arise; Filial Love that is so often lacking in the young man of today; and Comradeship that enriches and ennobles his life.

These, and many more are the lessons taught by the Order of DeMolay.

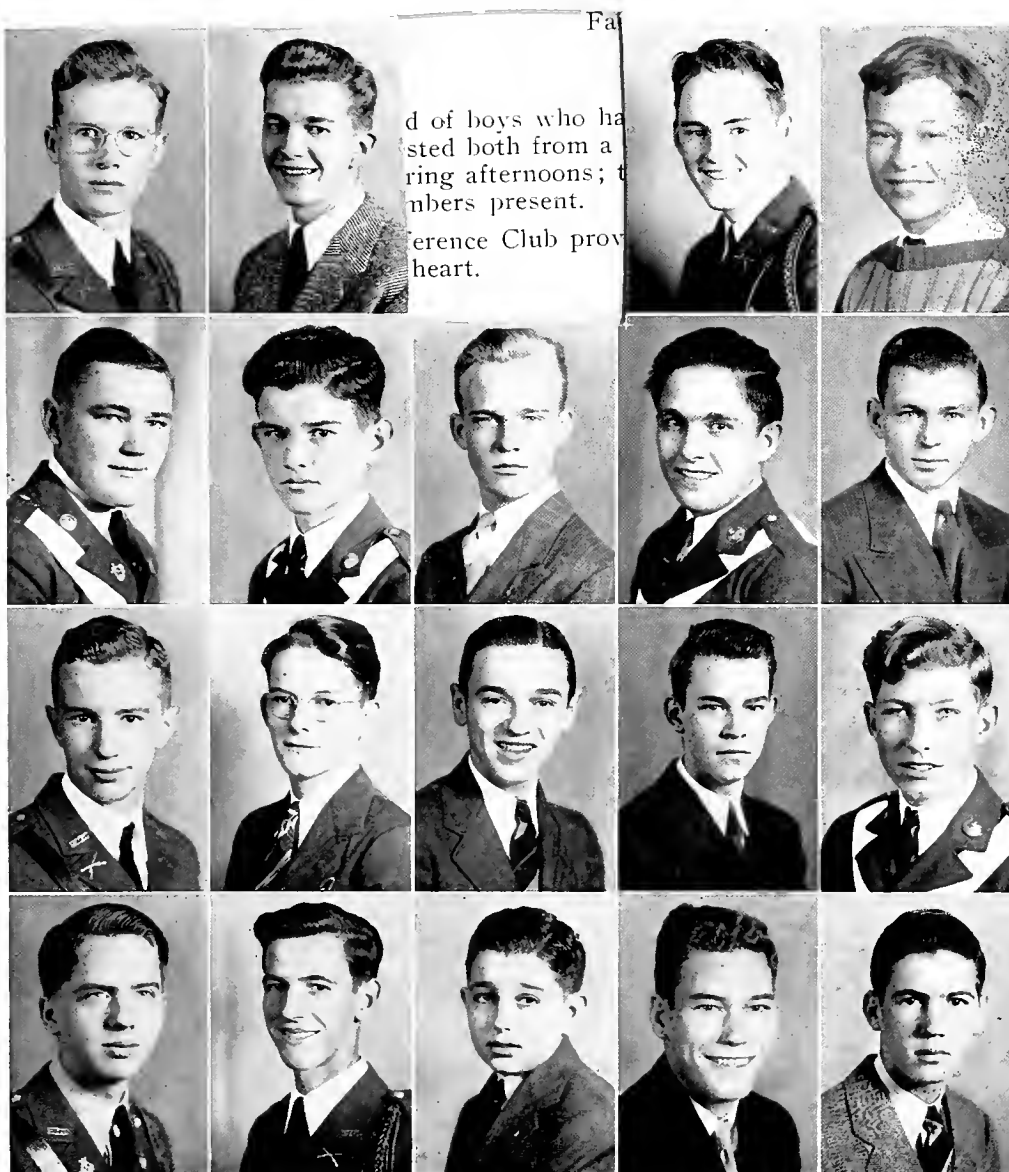

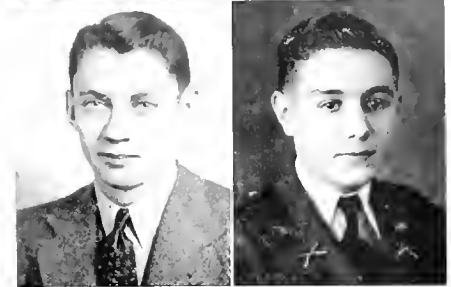

The Augusta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, is noted for its dances and socials. The dances it sponsors are rated by many the best in Augusta.

One of the many features of the DeMolay initiations is their "Clean Up" campaign. Five "rats", Morris Steinberg, Kessel Stelling, Sewell Elliott, H. T. Evans, and Billy Agostas, patriotically spent an afternoon cleaning Board Street from 7th to 9th Streets. The "rats" then sang, danced, and ended the evening by being arrested for vagrancy. All in fun, of course. This is known in DeMolay as the Sportsmanship Degree, and is an essential part of the initiation of all DeMolays.

Three years ago, a group of boys founded the now well-known "Hang-over Club." Its purpose is to "create", maintain, and execute a real school spirit." The charter members have accomplished this purpose, and they further the young school spirit for all our activities. Hangovers' stunt in Stunt Night for two consecutive years. The order of DeMolay, who are members in this club are silent members and no other boys taken in. J.C.A. owes a lot of its dances and socials to these "pals" who really hang ther.

THE RED X SOCIETY

The Red X Society was formed by Jones Epps, Bernard Koch, and Hubert Bentley. Its main purpose is one of recreation and fellowship. The membership is limited to fifteen boys, and these boys are chosen with regard to sportsmanship.

Our club is composed of boys who have the same idea in mind; namely: to study the trade in which we are most interested both from a theoretical and from a practical standpoint. We enjoy our contacts on the "job" during afternoons; then bring our problems to class where we discuss them to the advantage of all members present.

The Vocational Conference Club provides a means for expressing our talents through the medium of our head, hands, and heart.

S.O.S. stands for Students of Science. This is the only high school science group with a national organization. Members of this national organization publish "The Science Leaflet." This magazine contains articles written by high school students.

The S.O.S. Club was organized near the end of the first semester of this past year under the supervision of Mr. Derrick. To be a member of this club, a boy must be a chemistry student and have an average of 80. The club meets every other Wednesday at the seventh period. Two boys have charge of the program at each meeting. They choose their own experiments, and Mr. Derrick helps them carry them out. The object of the club is to learn more about Chemistry.

Mr. Derrick is planning a trip to Savannah with the club. They will visit the sugar refinery, oil refinery, and paper mill.

THE BETA CLUB

The National Beta Club is a non-secret, leadership organization for high-school students. Organized in 1933, it has at present a membership of over fourteen thousand students in over nine hundred chapters. Its objects are: to encourage effort, to promote character, and to stimulate achievement among its members. Eligibility for election to membership is based upon scholarship and character. The requirements for election to the Richmond Club include an honor average for three years in the Academy. The local chapter was installed three years ago and at present includes twenty active members in addition to the alumni now in the Junior College.
